Quacking Duck, 4 Captors Jailed After Gay Evening

Joyriders Who Took 'Donald' for Lark, Face Bar of Justice on Larceny Charge, 3 Freed, Girl Fined.

A gay evening of touring the city night spots which resulted in the theft of a duck today ended with a hilarious session in municipal court.

While the droopy-tailed duck quacked his protests from a nearby jail cell, four persons, two men and two women, told their story to Municipal Judge G E. Kalbfleisch how the duck came in their possession.

The quartet landed in jail at 1:10 a. m. today after an East Second street resident told police that one of her 10 ducks was missing and that four people in an automobile had droven away with it.

Reports Prowlers.

Third Shift Captain Jessie Schwab and Lieut. Karl Kalstein said they received a radio dispatch while cruising that prowlers were in the vicinity of 266 East First street.

Arriving there they said Mrs. E. G. Robinson told them four persons in a car, one of them a girl she knew, had fled with the duck.

Mrs. Robinson said she thought the girl was Eleanor Madden of 36 Clairmount avenue.

Police went to the address. They found Eleanor, who is 26, sitting in the rear seat with Donald under her arm. Another girl and two men were also in the car, and all four were brought to headquarters and charged with petty larceny.

Today Miss Madden told the court that stealing the duck was all her idea, after the party had visited several night spots.

"I just sorta felt devilish and wanted to do something," she testified. "So I thought it would be a good joke to take a duck and then return it tomorrow."

The other three said they didn't want her to steal the duck, but that she insisted that it "was all a joke."

Judge Kalbfleisch dismissed the charges against the other three and fined Miss Madden $1 and costs.

The bag, in which the vouchers were carried, contained no cash, Kagelmayer declared.

MARYLAND 1ST TO DECIDE ON TORRID FIGHTS

Showdown On Tydings-Lewis Contest Comes Monday And Georgia Race Follows.

END HECTIC CAMPAIGNS

Influence Of Roosevelt's 'Blessings' High Spot Of Ballot Surge.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Primaries or nominating conventions in 12 states and Maine's general election are to be held next week. Nine senators will come up for renomination.

Topping the other primaries in national interest because of President Roosevelt's efforts to bring about the defeat of Senators Millard E. Tydings and Walter F. George are those in Maryland and Georgia

Maryland Democrats on Monday will write their answers to the president's plea to unseat Tydings as a conservative and replace him with Rep. David J. Lewis as the Democratic nominee for senator.

Votes On Tuesday.

Georgia will vote Wednesday. In that state the chief executive gave his political blessing to Lawrence Camp, United States district attorney who is trying to unseat Senator George.

Former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, for years a political factor in Georgia, also seeks George's seat, as does William G. McRae, Atlanta attorney. A run-off primary, if necessary, will be held October 5.

Voters in six other states will nominate senate candidates on Tuesday. These are Arizona, Colorado, New Hampshire, Utah, Vermont and Washington.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.), who opposed the president's court proposals, is the lone candidate on the Democratic ballot in Colorado.

Other senators up for renomination are Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), Fred H. Brown, (D-NH), Elbert D. Thomas (D-Utah), Ernest W. Gibson (R-Vt.) and Homer T. Bone (D-Wash.)

No National Issues.

Louisiana and Michigan also will hold primaries Tuesday, but there is no senate contest in Michigan and Sen. John H. Overton already has been declared the senate nominee in Louisiana. South Carolina has a runoff primary Tuesday for Democratic nominees for state offices.

On the same day, Connecticut Democrats will open a state convention. Supporters of Senator Lonergan (D-Conn.) say he is assured of enough votes to win re-

Monday's Big Day For Them

Monday will be a big day for Representative David Lewis (left) and Senator Millard Tydings (right) of Maryland. For Maryland voters go to the primary polls then, and Maryland Democrats will decide which shall be the party's nominee for the senate. President Roosevelt has called for the defeat of Tydings, whom he brands as a reactionary, and urged nomination of Lewis. Monday will be the start of a big political week in the country, for 11 primaries are scheduled between Monday and Saturday, with Maine holding a general election.

Marriott Probes Accident In Which 2 Boys Were Hurt.

County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott today had taken over the investigation of the accident in which Lester Baker, 8, and his six-year-old brother, Paul, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Baker, Millsborough road, were critically injured late Thursday when struck by a car as they left a school bus in front of their home.

The condition of both boys was reported as "slightly" improved at the General hospital today. Marriott said that no charge would be filed against the driver of the machine, Mrs. Walter F. Howell, 204 West Park drive, pending the outcome of their injuries.

He said that state highway patrolmen who investigated the accident had considered filing careless and reckless driving charges against Mrs. Howell for her failure to stop for the bus but were waiting the outcome of their injuries. In the event of death, Marriott said he would call witnesses before the grand jury.

HITS SNAG AGAIN ON FIRE STATION

City Board Opens Bids On New Building, Finds Low Bidder Failed To Sign Proposal.

The city board of control today ran into its second snag in as many weeks in awarding the contract for the construction of a new No. 2 fire station.

When the 23 bids were opened yesterday by the board, which comprises Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, it was found that the lowest bidder had failed to sign his proposal.

The board held up the awarding of the contract and sent a request to City Solicitor Marion D. Ward for an opinion on the validity of awarding the contract on the unsigned proposal.

Two weeks ago the board rejected 17 proposals and re-opened the bidding when the lowest bidder failed to enclose the proper check with his bid.

Nist said that the bid submitted by S. B. White on the entire construction job, including plumbing, heating and electrical equipment was $7,845, or $193 lower than the next lowest bid entered by Martin Hallabrin, who quoted a price of $8,038. White, however, failed to add his signature to the proposal.

Two other firms which bid on the entire construction were the Zediker Masonry company, whose price was 8,250, and J. W. Ness, who bid $8,286.

Of the 23 bidders, all Mansfield firms, only four entered proposals for the general construction. They were White, Hallabrin, Zediker and Ness.

Passage of School Bonds to Assure Mansfield of 'Share' of PWA Funds

City'll Have to Help Pay for Grants, Might as Well Benefit Now.

Approval of the school bond issue at the special election Sept. 20 will assure Mansfield of its fair share of the billion dollars of federal funds being distributed by PWA for public works projects, school officials pointed out today.

In the first campaign for approval of the bond issue—which failed last month by only a few hundred votes—the point was stressed that the federal government was making a gift of $450,000 to the city, and that since new schools would have to be built eventually, and present ones modernized, voters would be foolish to turn down a chance to get a million dollar improvement at virtually "half price." The point was also made that Mansfielders would have to help, through taxes, to restore to the federal treasury the billion dollars PWA is advancing, so they might just as well get some of the benefit of it.

A survey of PWA expenditures, made by a national agency, shows that the billion-dollar federal program amounts to about a half-million dollars for every 50,000 population, which shows that Mansfield is receiving by grant neither more nor less than its rightful share of that huge sum.

Approval of the bond issue a week from next Tuesday will put $550,000 of local funds with the $450,000 federal grant, making a total of a million dollars available for the program. The program calls for construction of two new junior high buildings, a shop addition to senior high school and modernization of all the grade buildings.

With the federal government supplying $450,000, or about $10 for every person in the school district, the cost to school district tax payers will be just 43 cents per thousand dollars of real estate tax valuation, over a period of 20 years.

Of the million dollars to be expended, nearly 30 per cent will go for wages, providing jobs for a year for about 250 men.

JAM ELECTION BOARD AS VOTE ON BONDS NEAR

Hundreds Register, Transfer; Wednesday's Deadline; 38 Absent Ballots Cast.

Hundreds of new registrations and transfers swamped the county board of elections today as Mansfielders sought to establish their right to vote at the special school bond election a week from next Tuesday.

At the same time, 38 voters had cast absent voters' ballots, indicating unusual interest in the bond election, board officials asserted.

While election board officials said they were "too busy" to compile actual figures, a record registration for the Sept. 20 election was assured, with the new registrations expected to shove the total figure past the 20,000 mark.

Voting Deadline Sept. 17.

The deadline for registering and transferring for the school bond election is 4 p. m. next Wednesday, while absent and disabled voters' ballots may be voted until midnight, Saturday, Sept. 17, election officials said.

Board members pointed out that a number of persons who have registered had not voted for the past four or five years, while several foreign-born residents who recently obtained their citizenship had established their voting eligibility by registering.

The Mansfield P.-T. A. council's campaign in behalf of the school bond issue was credited with the surge of registrations and transfers. P.-T. A. workers are contacting every person in the city who is not registered or who must transfer to vote.

Registration is required of all persons who have failed to vote at the last two general elections, those who will be 21 years old on or before Sept. 20, and those who have recently moved to the city but who have lived here at least 30 days.

A. F. Porter, election board clerk, said every voter would be notified before the election board rules him ineligible to vote.

PUSH BOND DRIVE

Union School Officials and P.T.A. Plan 5 Meetings.

Five public meetings at schools in the Union rural district will be held next week as school officials and P. T. A. members push their campaign for a proposed $75,900 bond issue for a new school building, Supt. V. B. Moffett of the Union schools, announced today.

The bond issue, which would provide the school district's share of a $138,000 building program, will be submitted at a special election Sept. 20.

Meetings in behalf of the bond issue will be held Monday night at the Senate Hall and Franklin schools. Others will be conducted Tuesday night at the Pavonia school and Wednesday night at the Olivesburg school.

A mass meeting of all the P. T. A organiatiozns in the district, including Weller and Franklin townships, will be held Friday at the Union high school

Ships, Troops Move As Europe Awaits Hitler's Decision

Secret Messenger Carries England's Final Warning to Nazis In Last Desperate Effort to Terminate Growing Threats of Strife.

'NO BLUFF,' ULTIMATUM SAYS

Goering Ignores Moves to Keep Peace With Statement, 'Germany's Stronger Than Ever'; France Pouring More Troops Into Maginot Line.

(By United Press)

Britain and France made ready for war today. Warships, artillery, tanks and troops were in motion.

On one man lay the fateful decision of whether, by a decisive gesture, he would stop the caissons rolling, or pursue a course which must inevitably embroil the whole continent.

He is Adolf Hitler and he was silent at Nurnberg.

The key to the answer, Britain's ultimate, desperate effort to head off disaster, was believed to be in the hands of an obscure unknown—the secret courier who was understood to have arrived at Nurnberg with a dispatch constituting Britain's final move on what may be the eve of war.

It was reported to be an order to British Ambassador Nevile Henderson, to warn Hitler in cold, plain words that Britain is not bluffing and must join France against Germany if Czechoslovakia is invaded, starting the war.

'Stronger Than Ever.'

Field Marshal Hermann Goering, speaking at the Nazi congress in Nurnberg, branded Czechoslovakia as a "little state guilty of oppression" in a fiery speech which appeared to be largely a morale builder for home consumption. He mocked Great Britain's attempt to keep the peace, said the Rome-Berlin axis is as good as ever and pointed out that Germany, with the aid of Italy and Japan, is stronger than ever.

There was no longer much doubt, except in some quarters in Germany, that Britain and France meant business and had gone too far to pull back.

Her Maginot Line 100 per cent manned for war, France, in the secret of night, moved heavy artillery and tanks into the forests back of the line. Additional troops were sent up in reserve.

Fleets Set for Action.

The Mediterranean and Atlantic fleets were manned for action. Bus drivers and conductors were mobilized for army transport. Arsenals and factories making trucks and mechanized army units worked at full speed.

Residents of French towns on the German frontier were evacuating their families into the interior.

The Arabs of French North Africa notified France that their great reserve of man power was ready to fight.

The British Mediterranean fleet of 60 warships steamed out of Malta. London called it regular maneuvers, but refused to reveal the destination of the ships.

Both Russia and France were reported to have advised the Czechoslovak government of full military support in case of invasion, and to have advised no further concessions to the Sudeten Germans.

Czechoslovakia Guilty of Oppression, Goering Declares

(By United Press)

NURNBERG—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering delivered a scathing attack on Czechoslovakia today, branding it "a little state guilty of oppression."

Goering, one of the highest men in the Nazi party, addressed a labor front gathering in the congress hall of the annual party rally.

"A little state annoys a minority," he said without using Czechoslovakia's name. "Unfortunately, one does not see the root of evil. But we know what is happening there. A cultureless people, coming from no one knows where, is oppressing a people of culture.

"We know it is not the Pygmies themselves over there but that behind them lies Moscow, the Jew-Marxist demons with promises they never will keep.

"If the world rings with cries of war, then Democratic countries always tab the guilty parties—Germany and Italy, countries which at least have established internal peace and order.

"The Rome-Berlin axis is as solid as ever against any attempts to disturb it.

"On our western frontier we have fortifications through which no power on earth will come onto German soil."

"No threat can make us weak, although threats are being used against us . . . we do not want to harm anyone but we do not tolerate injustice to our brothers.

Goering assured his cheering audience that the Germans air force, of which he is the head, is the strongest, best prepared and most numerous in the world.

Refuse Further Concessions, Russia, France Tell Czechs

(By United Press)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — France and Russia have urged the government to make no more concessions to its German minority or to Germany it was reported today in well informed quarters

Serge Alexandrovsky, Russian minister, was said authoritatively to have told Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta that Russia is behind her with millions of soldiers but only on condition that there be no further surrender to the Sudeten German party. He was reported to have added that to go beyond the latest government minority proposals, would jeopardize the military defense of Czechoslovakia and hamper any military aid by Russia.

Victor Leopold De Lacroix, the French minister, was reported to have told Premier Milan Hodza that it should not be necessary for the government to go beyond its new offer.

These representations came coincidentally with a sharp warning from Czech parliamentary leaders that any great concessions to minorities might be repudiated by parliament.

It was with these developments in mind that President Eduard Benes prepared to address the nation late today.

Benes, in the belief that the Sudeten Germans speak for only a part of the German minority and that the Germans of Czechoslovakia as a body definitely do not want war, determined to appeal to them directly for support.

CHAPTER 38

No matter what Mrs. Garwood had told her, Noel just simply could not believe that little Betsy's mind was impaired. It was Noel's firm conviction that if the child could live a normal life, she would be as healthy, both mentally and physically, as any child her age. Noel made a firm resolution that in so far as it was possible she would do everything to make Betsy's life a more normal life.

That night, by dint of much coaxing and persuading, she finally induced Betsy to eat a wholesome supper of milk, toast and fruit. By 8 o'clock the child was asleep.

It had been a long day, and this was the first chance Noel had to get in touch with Laurie. She had been thinking of her all day, wondering just what had happened. Had Jimmy gotten there in time, or had Laurie gone through with her determination to marry the cafe proprietor?

Noel phoned the cafe, to find that Laurie wasn't there. She then called Mrs. Blarsom only to find that Laurie wasn't there either. Where was Laurie and what had happened? Noel felt as if she couldn't bear the suspense of not knowing. She went to bed feeling a little sick at heart for it certainly looked as if Laurie had carried out her avowed intention. By now she was probably Pete Cointepas' wife—married to a man she did not love.

* * *

With the morning, Noel again faced the problem of trying to persuade Betsy to eat her breakfast. The Japanese servant had brought up a tray containing food suitable only for adults. Noel sent him back for whole milk and cereal. After some delay, it was brought.

Betsy looked at the food with indifference.

"You will eat a little cereal and milk just to please me, won't you, Betsy?" Noel coaxed.

"I did that last night," Betsy reminded.

"But this is breakfast, and you must do it again," Noel explained patiently.

But Betsy shook her head in distaste.

Noel gave a minute to thinking. Then she said, "Look here, Betsy, we're going to be friends, aren't we?"

Betsy looked up in surprise, a little flicker of interest coming into her pale face. "Friends can play together and have good times. Could we?"

"Of course, dear. And friends, remember, always do things to please each other. So you must eat your cereal to please me."

"I will try," Betsy assented.

After that, Noel believed she was making progress. Betsy managed most of the ordeal. Then she leaned tiredly against her chair and closed her eyes.

* * *

Noel studied her pale little face for a few moments. To force this child to study, to discipline her as her mother had instructed, seemed to Noel to be an almost inhuman thing to do.

When Betsy's tired blue eyes weer open again, Noel said, "See, darling, we're going to play a game with these oranges. I'm giving you half and I'm taking half."

"You're not going to make me do sums?" The look of relief on the child's face made Noel's heart ache.

"No, indeed," she reassured her, "We're going to play store. It's a nice, quiet game."

They spent an hour with the oranges and cherries. First Noel would be the storekeeper, then Betsy would be, taking turns at buying and selling the fruit, counting it, adding or subtracting as the case might be.

Noel was rewarded at last to see a bit of color come into Betsy's face and a look of interest in her eyes. Noel found that her mind worked clearly. There was no reason at all, Noel decided, to fear mental trouble or arrested development. The truth was, that although Betsy tired easily, her mind seemed quite alert.

When they finished the game, Betsy rested for an hour. Then Noel suggested that they go downstairs to the terrace and walk around a bit. But the look that came into the child's eyes at the suggestion caused her to quickly withdraw it. "You'd rather not go to the terrace?"

Betsy shook her head quickly. "Oh, no—no."

"Then we won't go. We'll just open the windows in here and walk around a while. And then I bet when you see your lunch tray coming, you'll want to eat it all yourself and not leave me a bite."

* * *

Betsy actually gave a hoarse little laugh at that. She slipped out of the chair and, arm in arm, she and Noel walked around the big room a number of times. Then they went and stood in one of the big open windows and drew in deep long breaths of the cool air.

But the windows were closed and Betsy and Noel were playing store again when the Japanese servant brought up the tray for lunch. Noel was gratified to see that Betsy did not regard her food with quite as much distaste.

After lunch, Noel tucked Betsy up on the couch and said she was going to read to her. Noel had found a book, not a child's book, but one she believed she could couch in simple language so that it would be interesting to a child of Betsy's age.

After reading a while, she saw that Betsy had fallen asleep. There was a bit of color in her cheeks, which had been so waxen white.

The rest of the day passed uneventfully. Noel didn't hear anything from either Laurie or Julian. In spite of being absorbed in the child, she was feeling lonely in this big handsome house. Everything was so quiet. The servants—Noel had seen but two, the Japanese who brought in the meals and Hichens, whose manners were still reminiscent of the movies—seemed to glide around the house on rubber heels.

Noel had felt from the first there was a sort of sinister atmosphere about the place. Now, after a night and two days, she was more convinced of it than before.

And even though she was certain there was nothing wrong with Betsy mentally, the child was very weak, and really should be under a doctor's care.

* * *

The next day was Wednesday. Mrs. Garwood sent word that Noel's day off would not begin until next week. Noel had expected this and didn't mind, though she had cherished a faint hope of seeing Laurie and perhaps Julian.

But she really didn't want to leave Betsy yet. And she had made up her mind to speak plainly to Mrs. Garwood about the child's weakness. Noel didn't believe she was such unnatural mother as not to be interested in helping her child to get strong and well.

As Noel walked downstairs, she heard Hichens coming down the formal hall to answer the door. Noel could not see who was outside, but she heard a woman's pleasant voice saying: "I'd like to see Mrs. Garwood. This is the second time I've called. Tell her it's Cora Atwood."

"Mrs. Garwood is facing a nervous collapse, madam, over the condition of her child. The doctor says she musn't see anybody."

"But Fay and I were always such intimate friends," the voice protested bewilderedly. "She will want me, I know."

"I have my orders, madam," Hichens said coolly and closed the door in the woman's face. He did not see Noel standing there, but went to the door of Fay Garwood's room, just opposite the staircase, and left the door ajar.

Noel couldn't help seeing inside. And what she saw gave her a shock. Fay Garwood was playing cards with some friends. Her arm was no longer bandaged. She was using it quite easily.

Also Noel recognized one of the men at the card table. It was Luigi's henchman—the man who had twice followed her home!

SEEK INSURANCE

281 County Farmers Apply For 1939 Wheat Production.

Applications for federal insurance against loss of the 1939 wheat crop has been filed today by 281 Richland county farmers, who seek insurance on 3,384 acres of wheat, according to H. C. Stone, county crop insurance supervisor.

Stone said the county insurance office, located on East Third street, would receive no more applications for protection on the 1939 crop which will be seeded this month.

The insurance, which provides for loss by drought, storm, or flood, costs county farmers 1.2 bushels per acre for a 75 per cent coverage and .4 of a bushel per acre for a 50 per cent coverage.

Premiums may be paid in any of three grades of wheat specified by government crop officials, or in cash. Payments for losses will not be made until the wheat is harvested next summer, Stone said.

Nist said that all proposals must be accompanied with a certified check in the sum of $50 on a solvent bank in Ohio as surety that the contract will be entered into if accepted by the board.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—accidents don't happen, they are caused.

According to those California $30-a-week pension advocates, the New Deal is already pretty much of a back number.

"There will be no war abroad this year," asserts Financier James Speyer, recalling that he made the same prediction on his return from Europe in 1914.

Be on Lookout for School Buses.

SELDOM have sadder circumstances entered into an accident in this community than those associated with the Thursday afternoon occurrence in which two young school boys were critically injured in crossing the road from a school bus to their home on the Millsborough road.

No more frightful scene can be imagined than that of a mother standing a helpless witness of an automobile bearing down upon her two little boys, striking them and carrying them along a considerable distance before they fell to the pavement and were run over.

It is proper that a thorough investigation be made of the cause of this accident—not that this will help the little victims or their agonized parents, but that greater precautions may be taken in the future to spare other children from similar suffering—possibly death.

Without specific reference to this particular occurrence, it may well be reiterated at this period of re-opening schools, that too many drivers are inclined to disregard reasonable regulations as to speed in passing school buildings and the requirement to stop when approaching either front or rear of a school bus that has stopped for children to enter or leave.

While boulevard stops, traffic lights, and other regulations are consistently ignored by some motorists, it cannot be escaped that these minor offenses frequently lead to more serious violations—and sometimes to tragedy.

Cities in which best records are being made in traffic safety are those in which enforcement is strictest, with motorists being educated to understand that they must conform to traffic regulations or suffer the consequences—and that no partiality is shown to offenders and no tickets "fixed."

Tragedy of Excessive Taxation.

ANYONE who wishes to know why industry is finding it difficult to go ahead these days can find one potent reason in the gigantic tax burden.

The American Federation of Investors recently made a study of 150 representative large corporations, involved in every leading line of business. The total assets of these companies amounted to nearly $42,000,000,000. Their capital has been furnished by 6,490,000 shareholders, most of them small investors with less than 100 shares of stock. Their total number of employes was 3,171,000 in 1937.

In that year, the companies paid their common stockholders an average of $1.45 per share. And their tax bill amounted to $2.62 for each share of common stock outstanding—close to double as much as was received by the companies' owners.

Putting it another way, these 150 typical large corporations paid taxes amounting to $291 for each common shareholder, and $514 per employe.

These figures tell a tragic story. Excessive taxation is depriving investors of revenue that would flow into the stream of commerce, creating purchasing power and business opportunities. It is depriving a legion of workers of productive jobs. It is a growing barrier in the road of progress. And it is one of the main reasons why industry in spite of occasional upward flurries, looks with fear and uncertainty to the future.

Roads to Alaska.

LOUIS JOHNSON, assistant secretary of war, has stated that his recent 9,000-mile survey of the northern Pacific coast by air has convinced him that aviation is the key to the development of Alaska. A journey taking five days by steamer can be accomplished in five hours by airplane.

But Johnson is also interested in the possibility of a road. Not the interior roadway over mountains proposed by another official traveler lately, with a strip bought from Canada and other fantastic features, but a shore drive—an international highway all the way from Alaska down through Mexico to South America.

This sounds idealistic from the human standpoint and far away in possibility when viewed in relation to its cost. But the far look ahead is needed these days. And the time may come when peace among the nations will make a shore drive safe.

California Under Suspicion.

DANGER of California going bankrupt, through attempting to put into effect some ridiculous sort of pension plan, is already weakening credit in that state.

Although the $30-every-Thursday proposal is not to be voted on until November the city manager of Sacramento has already been informed that a pending municipal bond issue will have to provide for a higher yield to bond buyers.

Noting results of the recent primary, it appears that bond houses "are fearful of the risk to be taken in purchasing public bonds voted in California."

Prefers Horse and Buggy.

ACCORDING to a current news item a store in Pittsfield, Ill., has just sold the last of the new buggies it bought, in a car-load consignment, 15 years ago. The vehicle may be a little shop-worn but is guaranteed to give good service, and the buyer professes complete satisfaction with it.

He insists that the horse and buggy give better transportation than these newfangled gasoline contraptions. Incidentally, he bought the last buggy whip in stock, along with his buggy, but asked in vain for a linen duster.

This might be chronicled as the last "new buggy" sale in the United States, but any such claim is not to be trusted. There are still horse-and-buggy outfits operating here and there, some not far from Mansfield, and more of them over in Canada.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By MILO M. THOMPSON
Chief of the Washington Bureau of The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON—When a word of such diverse political implications as "purge" happens to get strongly underscored in American political speech, you can expect the practical politicians to worry it as a pack of terriers worries a rat.

It has happened before.

It happened to "mandate" when it was the proud boast of Democratic politicians that the re-election of President Roosevelt constituted the people's mandate to continue with New Deal policies.

It happened to "choose" when President Coolidge passed out unsmilingly to newspapermen, on narrow slips of paper, that characteristically terse line: "I do not choose to run in 1928."

Some of the practical politicians of the Democratic party are admitting just now a sort of hopeless embarrassment over the way the word "purge" has ballooned into prominence in the current off-year election. There are some who grumble because it seems somehow unfair, a weasel word, a propaganda word.

But "purge" is an intrinsically pat as its underscoring was inevitable. To purge, says the dictionary, is to purify or cleanse by separating and carrying off whatever is impure, foreign or superfluous. And few will deny that such a definition comprehends exactly what is in the minds of Democratic party leaders from the president down.

* * *

Linked to Dictatorships.

IT WAS not, of course, purely the patness of "purge" which made it inevitable that the present phenomenon would be so tagged. Part of the certainty lay in the clinging alliterativeness of the phrase "party purge" and part of it lay in its great usefulness to headline and caption writers. "Purge" has only five letters. It fits so well into limited space. The urge for shortness and explosive brevity which led head writers to make "probe" a crude journalese equivalent of "investigation" was certain to push "purge" into the headlines.

Probably no one would be complaining were it not for the fact that, in the history of recent years, the word has taken on additional implications. For political purposes, its primary meaning became confused with a secondary medical meaning when Mussolini, in his original Italian fascist purge, had resort to castor oil treatment. The nature of the method, and a certain amount of humor in it, caught worldwide attention and associated the word with distatorship.

Then came the no less famous "blood purge" in Nazi Germany which was followed by a similar liquidation in Russia. That was enough to identify a purge with dictatorships and, for this generation at least, to brand it as their instrument, their weapon and their method.

The fundamental correctness of the word in the present instance seems a misfortune of the first magnitude to some Democrats because of the peculiar circumstances of the present efforts at party purification.

It just happens that persons marked for party discard are persons who opposed the court bill and the reorganization bill, two measures concerning which the cry of dictatorship was raised to such an extent that the president himself saw fit to disclaim either desire or qualifications for dictatorships.

The Republican party chairman lost no time in tying the Old World and New World situations together. John Hamilton accused the president of "adopting the Russian technique of the purge" in an effort to "divert our attention from the failures of the New Deal.

When Wilson Spoke.

WHAT the troubled Democrats here seem to be studying hard to do is to convince the public that what is happening is not Russian, not German, not Italian, but actually nothing more than what President Woodrow Wilson had in mind when he said at Indianapolis on Jan. 8, 1915:

"The country is not going to use any party that can not do continuous and consistent teamwork. If any group of men should dare to break the solidarity of the Democratic team for any purpose or from any motive, theirs will be a most unenviable notoriety and a responsibility which will bring deep bitterness to them. The only party that is serviceable to a nation is a party that can hold absolutely together and march with the discipline and with the zest of a conquering host."

Wilson was not accused of dictatorship inclinations when he said that. The modern dictator had not yet been invented and the old ones were buried with the Caesars.

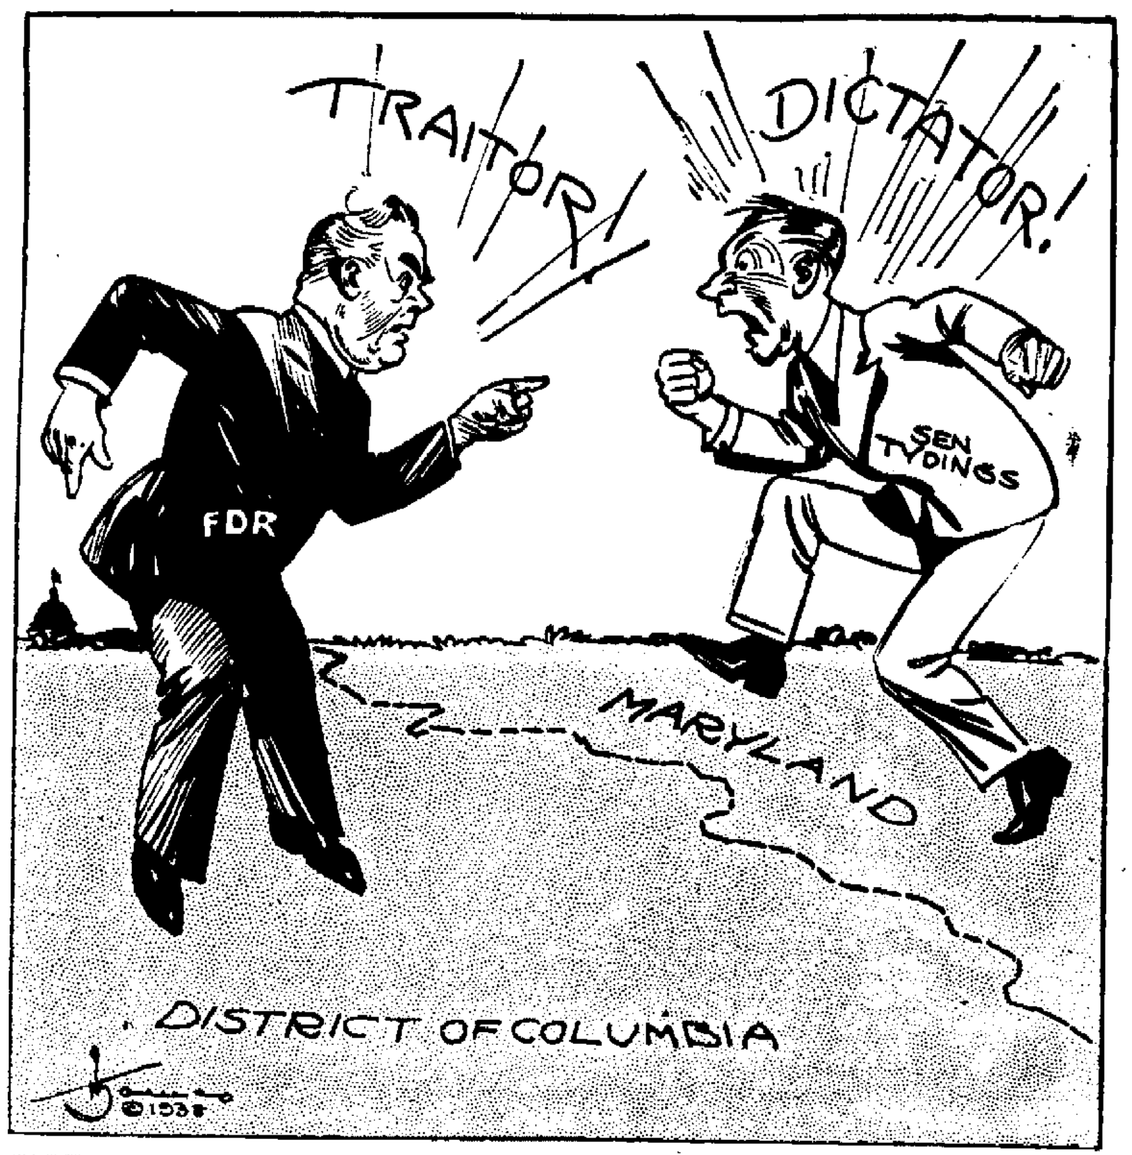
BAD NEIGHBOR POLICY



Need 'Rabble Rouser of the Right'

RABBLE ROUSING must be met by rabble rousing if the conservatives, the great middle class and the business interests of America hope to successfully combat radicalism and crackpot economic schemes, according to Walter B. Pitkin in an article "Why We Need a Rabble Rouser of the Right."

Author of "Life Begins at Forty," and other popular books, the writer is a professor in Columbia University School of Journalism and a lecturer of note.

He contends the same emotional appeals should be used to stir the masses of the people sound policies that are being used by wild-eyed and starry-minded radicals and visionaries.

He points to the Texas victory of O'Daniel, a solid citizen and a business man as proof of the claim that "rabble rousing" methods will succeed for the conservative type of candidate as well as for the leftists.

* * *

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

As example of the use to which radicals and leftists put rabble rousing methods he cites the startling sweep of California's "$30 Every Thursday Plan," which, he says, promises to ruin the economic structure of the state.

"Do you think such a movement will be stopped by economists, or by appeals to the Dear Old Constitution?" he asks.

Dr. Pitkin's remarks follow in condensed form:

"Like it or not, we must turn rabble rousers. We must stir up voters to some emotion that will lead to fast action. Now is not the time for slow spiritual deliberations.

Let's stop hiring scholars to defend Capitalism and the Constitution and America! Let's stop publishing pamphlets on How Right We Are. Let's stop clamoring against the Wicked Reds. It only makes most people laugh. Above all, let's stop the comical organizing of bands of patriots to save the country.

"Begin at once arousing people to action by telling them the plain truth about events in their own towns and neighborhoods. Give the feel of the situation, but no fake dramatizing.

ANGER OVER RESTRAINT

Let's get down to cases. Today millions of common people are angry over some restraint imposed upon their natural conduct. This anger is genuine, not affected.

So, too, with human fears. I wouldn't put money in a new business today because I'm afraid that some crazy new law may wreck it. You need a new home but will not build because you fear you'll lose your job.

"Upon such emotions we can build national conduct if we accept the emotions as genuine. The old, old method of the W. C. T. U. must be adopted. Tell the real-life tragedies with all the horrible trimmings.

"It was elemental fury over raw murder of innocent travelers on the Lusitania that persuaded American people to abandon their traditional love of national isolation and peace.

"The common man thinks in terms of himself alone. We ought to accept him as he is. We ought to show him how things now happening are in reality cheating him and his children out of house and home.

"We ought to show him how he pays tribute for every new tax whether it be direct or indirect. Nothing but hot news will serve us. Cold news, learned news, dull news and colored news will defeat us. We need fewer, Ph. D's and more red-hot reporters; less economics and more truthful muckraking. We need more thunder!

"Men who stand on their dignity go down on their dignity. The vessel is too frail for the seas now running."

Health Advice

Layman Advice to the Sick.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE average persoin likes to think of himself as intelligent and quite able to take care of himself by his wisdom and wits. To suggest to him that many of his acts are illogical and carry potentialities for harm to himself would arouse his resentment or interest, depending upon his sense of fairness.

In dealing with the problems of health, this lack of logic oftentimes takes curious turns. For example, most people would admit quite readily their complete inability to build a bridge across the Mississippi river because they have had no training in engineering; again they will agree that they could not fly an airplane because of lack of training in aeronautics. The same individual, however, quite blandly assumes complete ability to diagnose a pain in the abdomen, and proceeds with a clear conscience and an air of complete confidence to prescribe a cure.

It is characteristic of most people to pride themselves upon their ability to act in the capacity of a doctor or a lawyer, yet readily admit their complete ignorance of engineering or aeronautics.

We may well ask why this illogical situation exists. The answer probably lies in the fact that engineering and aeronautics are man-made sciences and deal entirely in facts and figures, reason and logic, and it is no reflection upon the intelligence to admit ignorance of a purely technical matter. On the other hand, medicine is not an exact science: so much is not proved; so many forms of treatment are based upon theory than fact In the not distant past it was wrapped in deepest mystery and has gradually evolved through a combination of observation, folklore and scientific investigation.

Folklore Responsible.

The folklore element is largely responsible for the present day "hangover" of the confident belief on the part of laymen of an ability to diagnose and prescribe for many ailments of the body. It is a matter of family pride to know certain "sure cures" for many diseases, and to take issue with these beliefs is a distinct reflection upon the family intelligence.

Furthermore, the so-called scientific fodder constantly broadcast over the radio and in the public print relative to miraculous or "newly discovered" remedies, influences a great many people to a belief that diagnosis and treatment of human ills is a simple cut and dried affair; that for every disease there is a cure; that if the doctor is unable to relieve the patient, doubtless there is someone else who can.

It is a human trait to want to be helpful in sickness and distress. To build a bridge is distinctly the "other fellow's business," but sickness and distress bring out all the latent charity in everyone except the most depraved. It is a good trait and should be encouraged because it is a great solace to the patient.

Why They Are Blue Points.

Blue Point oysters are neither blue nor pointed.

Black and greyish in color, round in shape, why are they called Blue Points?

Today, the term is intrinsically meaningless, being applied to any small, circular oyster with a good flavor and servable raw.

Originally, however, the Blue Point bivalve was so-called because it came from the fine natural oyster bed of a little village located on the Great South Bay of Long Island, New York, named Blue Point.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

EIGHT Democratic senators who opposed the President's court plan last summer are running for re-election this year. Five have been renominated, counting one last Tuesday, and the other three are seeking renomination this coming week.

Tuesday's winner was Pat McCarran, 62-year-old Reno lawyer, who was renominated in the Nevada primary for a second term. He beat two avowed New Dealers and will be opposed in the November election by a former Republican senator, Tasker L. Oddie.

Next week's contenders are Augustine Lonergan, Millard E. Tydings and Walter F. George. The president has said nothing directly to help or hurt Lonergan's chances in the Connecticut nominating convention Tuesday, but he is backing New Dealers openly against Tydings in the Maryland primary Monday and George in the Georgia primary Wednesday.

Upcoming.

In Maryland, the president's choice to unseat Senator Tydings is little David J. Lewis, 69, an ex-coal miner who has had 14 years in the house of representatives. A third candidate is Arthur E. Hungerford, Baltimore lawyer. Mr. Roosevelt recently called Tydings a "betrayer" of the administration, and in a Labor Day speech in Maryland this week he praised Lewis as a pioneer in social legislation. Tydings fought back with charges that federal officials had tried to influence federal workers to vote for Lewis.

In Georgia, the president's choice to unseat Senator George is Lawrence Camp, 39-year-old lawyer. Other candidates for the job are ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge, whom Mr. Roosevelt also has criticized, and W. G. McRae, a Townsendite. All four campaigned mostly in the rural districts this week because the state's tricky electoral scheme gives more weight to farmers' votes, in general, than to city folks' votes.

'Liberalism.'

President Roosevelt recently denounced participation by members of one party (Republican) in the primaries of another (Democratic). But last week-end, apparently speaking of general elections, he told newspapermen: "If there is a good liberal running on the Republican ticket, I would not have the slightest objection to his selection. The good of the country rises above party."

That started debate on: What is a liberal?

Some recent definitions:

Mr. Roosevelt: "Roughly speaking, the liberal school of thought recognizes that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies."

John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee: "True liberals, today as always, are those who are making a determined fight against the centralization of governmental powers in one man."

Senator Borah: "Liberalism is anything that is not conservative."

Then, in his Maryland speech, the president added: "As the leader of the (Democratic) party, I propose to try to keep it liberal." And there was talk of new party lineups for 1940.

At Home

U. S. Precautions.

Five steps toward greater preparedness have been taken recently by America:

1. President Roosevelt named a committee to seek ways of providing wartime emergency power facilities.
2. Agents of foreign governments were ordered to register with the U. S. state department.
3. The army revised its advanced training standards to open high places to younger men.
4. The war department proposed to seek funds for an army of 173,000 men next year instead of the present 165,000.
5. A five-year, $10,000,000 program to train private manufacturers to produce scads of semi-automatic rifles, anti-aircraft guns and munitions was launched.

* * *

Labor Day.

Labor Secretary Perkins preached peace, on Labor day this year, but unionism's generals, Green of the AFL and Lewis of the CIO, went on practicing their wordy warfare. AFL lists 5,000,000 members and adds that more than 3,600,000 pay dues. CIO gives its membership as "upwards from 4,000,000."

On sociologists' desks, this Labor Day, lay a special U. S. commission's report that mutual acceptance of collective bargaining by national unions and national associations of employers has made labor strife rare in England.

On highways, beaches, etc., on the week-end of this 56-year-old holiday, a few more accidental deaths occurred than last year.

* * *

Ohio Pensions.

The social security board held a hearing this week to decide whether federal pension grants to Ohio should be suspended because of charges that the state's old-age assistance program was "permeated from top to bottom with partisan politics."

Ohio officials did not appear when invited, and Board Chairman A. J. Altmeyer said it was "reasonable to assume" their absence was "an admission of the truth of the charges."

But Gov. Martin L. Davey retorted in writing that the board had played "dirty politics," and declared suspension of federal aid would be "an act of cruel tyranny which not even a political faker could justify."

* * *

Home Again.

William Meeks, a northern California fruit grower, reported last week-end that two masked men had kidnaped his wife. Fifty-six hours later a truck driver found her walking along a road 13 miles from home. She said her captors had abandoned her after threatening to kill her and making her sleep two nights in a clump of poison oak.

* * *

Fascists vs. Jews.

The latest religious census showed less than 50,000 Jews in Italy. But the fascists now consider a person a Jew, regardless of his religion, if both his parents were of the Hebraic race. And a new estimate puts Italy's Jewish population at nearly 85,000.

About a fourth of those, it is estimated, will be uprooted by last week's cabinet decree ordering all Jews who have settled in Italy since 1919 to leave within six months. A second decree, excluding Jewish students and teachers from Italian schools, will affect many more.

Result: In Rome, this week, Jews were so frantic that many who had fled to Italy from Germany and Austria were trying to flee back. And the Vatican newspaper said the fascist racial doctrine "concerns a great and serious error which reaches the steps of the altar, touching Catholic doctrine."

Battle Won.

For years Italy has had to import wheat, but Mussolini decided the country ought to raise its own. He reclaimed marshes for farm land and dramatized the struggle to increase production by calling it the "battle of the grain." This week he received news the battle had been won.

Foreign Correspondence.

The U. S. says Mexico owes American citizens $10,000,000 for farms taken from them, and has dunned Mexico twice recently. Mexico, in a second reply this week, still refused to promise payment but accepted a U. S. suggestion for joint arbitration of the claims.

Red-haired Jacqueline Cochran, 27, of New York, beat 10 men speed flyers from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland, and on to Bendix, N. J., last week-end. Her time—10 hours, 7 minutes, 10 seconds—was a new west-east transcontinental record for women.

Other main-event winners in the national air races at Cleveland over Labor Day: Tony Levier, of Los Angeles, with a new record average of 250 miles an hour in the 200-mile dash; Roscoe Turner, of Chicago, with a new record average of 283 m. p. h. in the 300-mile event. One contestant was killed.

Of the Catholic church's 64 cardinals, only three are Americans—the archbishops of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia. A fourth was Patrick Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, who died last Sunday. Born of poor Irish parents in lower Manhattan 71 years ago, he was known as the "cardinal of charities" and had been head of the world's richest diocese since 1919.

Once a Crown Prince.

Frail, lame Alfonso de Bourbon y Battenberg, heir to Spain's throne, escaped in a third-class railroad coach—where no Spaniard would think to look for a crown prince—when the monarchy fell. As the Count of Covadonga, he had hectic romances, and to be photographed by a tourist in a Cuban cafe delighted him.

But he never got far from Mr. Brink O. Death, for he had inherited hemophalia. And this week in Miami, death overtook him—when a night-club cigaret girl's car in which he was riding hit a telegraph pole.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

KATHERINE'S CRYPTIC smile deepened, and her eyes twinkled at Lillian's question concerning Queen Olga's condition, with the corollary that the nurse knew something about the situation in the royal sickroom which she had not yet told us.

"No, she isn't so sick she can't be told he's coming," Katherine said slowly. "You see, she's expecting him."

Lillian and I leaned forward in astonished accord.

"Say that again," Lillian demanded, and when Katherine repeated the words, she struck a clenched fist against her knee.

"My sainted grandmother's pet poodle!" she exclaimed. "How did she guess? And does that mean she wants to see him?"

Knows Him Well.

"Anything else but," Katherine replied in prompt answer to the second quary. "And the reason she guessed is because of her general knowledge of her gifted boy friend's persistence and resourcefulness, coupled with a canny—or uncanny—intuition into his mental processes. I don't know just what."

Lillian's face was suddenl comprehending, and my own look of inquiry held something more than mere speculation.

"It probably spells something her royal highness doesn't realize herself," she said, and Katherine nodded sagely.

"She's more interested in him than she knows," she said, "but she's also afraid until she's stronger to face his certain insistence that she and Olina leave here for some haven of his own devising where he can have them guarded with all the panoply of royalty which is his pet phobia."

"And where he will have the chance to throw Noel into Olina's company almost constantly," Lillian said dryly.

"Exactly," Katherine agreed. "Olga may be more interested in Phil than she knows, but that will make no difference in her attitude toward Olina's behavior. She simply will not stand for her daughter's forgetting her religion and her training in fair play, in order to attempt the stealing of another woman's husband away from her."

"I have a hunch," Lillian said, "that when she does face Phil, he is going to get the surprise of his life."

Katherine looked at her sharply.

"You mean about Noel and Olina," she said.

"Among other things," Lillian answered, and though Katherine made no further comment, I had an intuitive feeling that she comprehended something in Lillian's cryptic answer that I failed to get.

"Well! there's one good thing," Lillian continued, "you won't have to do any hocus-pocus act about Phil's coming."

"Ah! but I will," Katherine said. "As far as Olga is concerned, I could say Mr. Veritzen has arrived, and she wouldn't turn a hair. But Olina must not know that her mother knows about Phil's coming. Olga was most careful to tell me of her hunch when Olina was out of the room. It is a hunch which Olina does not share, and which Olga does not want her to share."

"You mean, then," I said slowly, "that you cannot trust Olina to keep from Phil the fact that her mother could see him if she wished."

"Something like that," Katherine said, and added qiuckly: "I don't mean that she would tell him deliberately, but—what she doesn't know, she can't tell, and her ignorance will make my excuses for Olina plausible. So my dears, when the great man arrives, call me unobtrusively out of the room, and then I'll come down and stage my determined professional interdict against Olga's even knowing that her 'Felipe' has arrived. Then I'll snake Olina out of the room, tell her the same thing, and send her down to greet the travelers. Will that do?"

"You know that it will do beautifully," Lillian said, rising. "Go back to your patient, Machiavelli. Madge and I will go downstairs, and wait with fingers crossed for the entrance of the great dramatic producer."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday Sept. 11.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a very significant one, with promise of sudden upheavals or drastic visitations of far-reaching effect on the life and its destiny. This may not be interpreted as ominous or sinister, although it may be deep and devastating. Danger may result from personal carelessness, excitement or contacts with strongers. With precaution, there should be excellent prospects of expansion and progress of surprising character.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of sudden upheaval, promising a profound influence on the life. This may bring about new surroundings and strange contacts and associations. Be wise, careful, alert in such readjustments, and there should be great gain, expansion and progress, with adventure and probable romance.

A child born on this day may be talented, original, independent, audacious and brave, although nervous. It may crave high adventure and romance, and may travel far from its birthplace to attain its heart's desires.

For Monday, Sept. 12.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of rather conflicting conditions, with many hopes of progress, financial prospects and friendly co-operation, although it may be attended by obstruction, delays, quarrels and vexations. Writings may give concern or be at the root of frustrations, although friendly intervention of elders may be helpful.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of contradictory experiences, with splendid promise for progress and success, but, at the same time, there may be impediments, delays and vexatious situations to maneuver satisfactorily and harmoniously. A change of ideas plans or even environs may prove beneficial, but consultations with elders may help iron out preplexing problems.

A child born on this day may be friendly, just and generous, but its nervous, highstrung and probably irritable nature may make it hard to get along with. Its elders should stand by with wise counsel and true insight and even generosity.

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE COUNTER-ATTACK

GOOD DEFENSE against a No Trump game usually has to take the form of a counter-attack, repeated and repeated each time it is repulsed by one of the declarer's stoppers. You can seldom beat such a contract except by setting up the small cards of some long suit, and you can seldom do that except by keeping at the suit each chance you get.

This deal arose in a duplicate tournament and at one table the North-South players made a game at No Trump which they did not deserve. South opened with 1-Heart, and instead of raising hearts, North went to 2-Clubs, South to 2-No Trumps and North to 3-No Trumps.

At other tables the contract was played at either 3-Hearts or 4-Hearts. Perfect defense set the 4-Heart contracts.

Where the No Trump was played West led the diamond Q, which was won with dummy's A. The club 2 was led and taken with the K. This was followed by the J, which East also refused to win. Then came the heart Q. which East won with the A. Then, instead of continuing with his partner's original opening, East switched to a spade. South played low and the Q was forced to win the trick. As West could not afford to lead a diamond, he tried the heart 9, which South captured with the J. A club to the Q was taken by East, who now played a diamond. South went right in with the king, cashed the heart Q and the 6 to the 7 in dummy made it possble to cash two more clubs.

A Farmer's Diary

New Straw Stack.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE sheaves of grain tumbled from my neighbor's mow upon the moving web that fed them to the fast revolving cylinder which grabbed the bundles like a furious beast, and devoured them as quickly.

Out in the barnyard, two men with pitchforks, wearing blue blouses, hats pulled low, and red handkerchiefs knotted high about their necks, arranged the foundation of the straw stack into a loose, circular wall. All the while, a steady stream of chaff and dust, mixed with bunches of straw, fell with some force close to the sturdy builders of the stack.

By midforenoon the growing heap had reached a height of 13 feet; by noon the men were rounding out the top that stood high above the eaves. It was a splendid piece of work, and I admired their skill That straw would keep clean and bright, within, for many months

When the dust had settled, and the threshers moved away, I went into the barnyard The fine dust and chaff had settled over everything . . . the trees, the roofs of sheds, along the adjacent pasture fences

How clean that new straw smelled! How soft and loose it seemed, as I leaned against it, and found my head and shoulders buried beneath its tangled sides! What pleasure it would be . . . if I were not too old . . . to climb clear to the top of that billowing, fragrant mountain, stand there upon the crest, wave my hand . . . sit down and slide along the slippery flank, until I came to earth with a rush, cushioned upon a heap of straw! If I were not too old, and if I would dare . . ."

Galion Woman Sues Following Accident, Accuses Driver Of Reckless Driving.

BUCYRUS—Injuries received in an automobile accident last July 31 resulted Friday in a suit being filed in common pleas court here by Frances Runyon of Galion, against Dwight O. Williams, also of Galion, for $25,000.

The petitioner avers that Williams agreed to haul her from Galion, where she was employed as a designer in a garment factory, to Cleveland, and that his automobile overturned near Ashland.

SHELBY SCHOOL RECORD TO FALL

1,400 Students Expected To Enroll For Classes To Open Monday.

SHELBY—A record enrollment of 1,400 students is expected Monday afternoon when the Shelby public schools open at 1 p. m., according to Supt. C. G. Keck. Last year only about 1,300 were enrolled.

The largest gain is expected in the high school where approximately 800 students will be registered, Keck said. Last year less than 500 were registered in the high school building.

The increase this year will be due to nearly 300 rural students coming into the Shelby schools from Jackson, Plymouth and Sharon townships, Keck pointed out. The high school enrollment increased largely this year due to the transfer of the seventh and eighth grades from Central school to the building, Keck said.

Although Shelby's $80,000 addition to the high school will not be completed until around October, school officials expect to use the top story of the building for class rooms. School officials said that "they expected to be cramped for room until the new addition is completed, but that they thought school would go along as usual."

WHAT THE NEW SIGHT-SAVER LAMP MEANS TO School children—

At school age, twenty children out of every hundred have defective vision. At college age, the number has increased to forty out of every hundred. This incredible and tragic story of crippled eyes can be blamed in large part on the needless abuse of the eyes—and partly to improper lighting in the home. Straining the eyes to read newsprint or a printed page under poor and inadequate light, writing or studying under a glaring lamp which casts harsh shadows . . . these are the things which will slowly but surely result in damaged eyesight. During school years, when a child is using his eyes extensively, it is doubly important that you have good lighting in the home. This is what the new Sight-Saver lamp provides.

The SIGHT METER will tell you why!

Elks, Billiards Conclude Series

Winner of Sunday's Game at Fairground Will Challenge Legionnaires for City Semi-Pro Title.

THE PAY-OFF in the current baseball series between the Rex Billiards and Mansfield Colored Elks will come Sunday when the clubs collide in a single game at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m.

The series records show one victory and one defeat for each team, and to the winner of Sunday's "rubber" game goes the spoils, which, in this instance, will be the right to challenge the American Legion for the city semi-pro baseball title.

Manager Bus Hawkins' Elks won the first game of the series, 3 to 2 and the Billiards evened it up with a 2 to 1 verdict recently.

Manager John Stoner plans to send Joe Moore, who stopped the Elks in their last game, to the mound, with Lawrence Smith back of the plate. John Jones and John Brown will be on the firing line for the lodgemen.

Masters Gain on Foresters

Teachers Can Gain Tie for Title In Next Game.

The Schoolmasters today were in a position to tie for the championship of the Y. M. C. A. Club softball league.

Their remaining game is with the Catholic Foresters, and if they can win this tilt, they will gain a tie for the title. A defeat will give the Foresters the championship.

The Schoolmasters moved within striking distance of the van yesterday when they defeated Zents' Radios, 6 to 3, at Liberty park in a game called at the end of the sixth because of darkness.

WHITE, BUCS NO MATCH FOR LIONS IN OPENER

DETROIT — (INS) — The Motor City today had its first taste of the football wares of Byron "Whizzer" White, 1937's All-American and top-ranked collegiate grid star, and admitted they had tasted better stuff, as his Pittsburgh Pirates teammates dropped their opening game 16-7 to the Detroit Lions last night, before 18,000 persons.

Visibly hampered by the bright lights, and marked by his reputation, the "Whizzer" was kept bottled by a fast-charging Lion team through three quarters of the game.

Beermen Snap Cigars' String

The Musille Cigars' 12-game winning streak was broken by the Beeber-Ross Beers at Johns park yesterday. The score was 3 to 2.

Dale McKinley held the Beers runless until the 8th inning when they put together a walk, a single, a double and two overthrows to tally three times. The Cigars tallied their two runs in the seventh, the inning in which Fischer hit for the circuit.

Freddy Carver gave the Cigars six hits and struck out 11, while McKinley yielded eight safeties and struck out four. The hitting stars were Fischer and Woerth of the Cigars and Hunt and Bride of the Beers.

Puts Boudreau, Mack to Work as Club Falls

Vitt Experiments With New Rookies Against Tigers.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians today was determined to perform some experiments upon the loose-fielding infield which figured prominently in the Tribal fadeout as a pennant contender in August.

Vitt gave a hint yesterday of changes he might make when he substituted two rookies at second and third bases after the Indians fell hopelessly behind the Detroit Tigers who won, 11 to 5.

The two newcomers were Louis Boudreau, former University of Illinois athlete whose contract with the Indians caused a stir last winter while he was still in college competition, and Ray Mack, former Case foolball star.

Boudreau replaced Ken Keltner at third in the seventh. He had nothing to do in the field and walked once and grounded out once at bat. Mack went in for Second Baseman Odell Hale and handled four fielding chances without mishap. At the plate, he popped up twice.

The regular Tribal inner works committed four errors and played loosely behind starting Pitcher Willis Hudlin. The errors figured in the scoring of seven Tiger runs, more than the margin of victory. All of Detroit's 14 hits off Hudlin and his relief, Ken Jungels, were singles except for Hank Greenberg's 47th home run of the year. The blow left Hank two behind Babe Ruth's record streak of 1927.

Either Bob Feller or Al Milnar were to face the St. Louis Browns who invade League park today. Buck Newsom or Russ Van Atta were their likely mound opponents.

WPA to Stage Title Series

Playoff to Open Monday at Armory Field.

A playoff to determine the championships of the WPA softball league will get under way next week.

The series opens Monday at 5 p. m. with Unit No. 1 meeting No. 3 at the Armory. No. 2 and No. 5 will meet Wednesday. The winners of these two games will meet in the finals to get under way Friday. The second game will follow a week from Monday, with the third game, if necessary, set for Tuesday.

After the championship has been decided, an all-star team will be selected to meet the champions. A league field day is tentatively set for Oct. 1.

CLEVELAND HELD HITLESS, LOSES TO CINCINNATI

CHICAGO—(AP)—The whittling down process in the international softball tournament began all over today with a field of 44 teams still in the championship running. All the defending champions were missing, however, and so were some early favorites.

The Num Num Girls of Cleveland, 1937 winners, also were eliminated, the no-hit victims of Kate Castator of Cincinnati, which won 3 to 1.

ALLEN LIKELY TO YIELD TO OPERATION ON ARM

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Johnny Allen, baseball's leading pitcher until he cracked up about two months ago, may go under the surgeon's knife before the month is over.

Dr. Philip Kreusher, Chicago bone specialist, today said Allen's trouble, indicated by x-ray pictures taken here, is a condition common to pitchers and will yield to an operation. Allen said he "would have to take time to think over an operation."

INFANTRY HOLDS EDGE

CAMP PERRY — (AP) — Uncle Sam's infantrymen held a seven-point advantage over the Marines today as the national rifle matches concluding .30 caliber team event entered its final stage.

LILLIAN MARKS, THELMA LINSTER VIE IN WOMEN'S FINALS SUNDAY

The women's golf championship of the Possum Run club will be determined Sunday in a match involving Lillian Marks, defending champion, and Thelma Linster.

The 36-hole match for the title will get under way at 9:30 a. m., with 18 holes scheduled in the morning and the same number in the afternoon.

Lillian and Thelma are two of the outstanding feminine golfers in the city, and the Sunday match has attracted much attention.

Thelma recently set a new women's record at Possum Run with a card of 74, three above men's par.

11 Vets Report At Butler High

Hutson Works 12 Crestline Lettermen for Toughest Schedule Ever Faced by School on Grid.

BUTLER—Although new in this football section, Robert F. Burgett, Maurice Stearns' successor at Butler high school, is impressed with the potentialities of the Tigers. "We may have a pretty fair outfit before the season is over," Burgett figures.

Of course, Burgett realizes he is a newcomer in this territory, and until he is offered an opportunity to compare Butler's strength with the rivals, he expects to keep his tongue in his cheek.

Burgett is a product of Francis Schmidt's school of coaching. He was a member of one of Schmidt's earlier Ohio State clubs, and received his coaching baptism at Carrollton.

Burgett will build his club around 11 letterman this year. Veteran backs returning are Kenny Miller, Wendall Ward, Bob Arnold and Frank McFarland. Floyd McFarland, Bob Boals, Marion Larribee, Dick Bowman, Bob Kunkle, Leonard Burkubile and Harold Hall are the line lettermen.

Heading the crop of new candidates are Jack Willson, a back, and Dave Grubb, Chester Greer, Walter Zawdy, Ray Thrush, Red Harris and Merle Hallar, linemen.

Butler is no longer a member of the Mid-State league, but will play all of its former foes except Madison. The schedule: Sept. 16, Mansfield high reserves, tentative; Sept. 23, Bellville, here; Sept. 30, Mt. Gilead, there; Oct. 7, Danville, there; Oct. 14, open; Oct. 21, Centerburg, there; Oct. 28, Loudonville, here; Nov. 4, Fredericktown, here.

HUTSONMEN TO OPEN SEASON WITH SANDUSKY

CRESTLINE—Faced by one of the toughest schedules in history, Crestline high school's gridiron warriors completed their first week of practice yesterday.

Twelve lettermen have reported to Coach Merle Hutson. They are Bob Fry, Phil Ganni, Burno Moleno, Clinton Schreck, Burrel Grim, Jack Waltz, David Rish, Paul Keltner, Louis Cellini, Earl Fletcher, Dean Fisher and Wilbur Kilber.

According to present indications, the team will average 150 pounds in the line and 160 in the backfield.

Crestline will break out in new uniforms this season. The trousers are grey whipcord, with blue elastic bands on the side. The sweaters will be blue and white.

There is a possibility that the home games will be played at night. Arrangements to light Hamilton field have been partially completed.

The schedule follows: Sept. 17, St. Mary's of Sandusky, there; Sept. 23, Galion, there; Sept. 30, Madison, here; Oct. 7, Upper Sandusky, here; Oct. 14, Mt. Vernon, there; Oct. 21, Fostoria St. Wendlin, here; Oct. 28, St. Mary's of Marion, here; Nov. 4, Shelby, here; Nov. 11, Tiffin Calvert, there.

FOUR VETS TO FORM BELLVILLE BACKFIELD

BELLVILLE—Bellville high school's grid forces have been hit hard by graduation, but Coach Royd Hodge is again developing what should be a factor in the Mid-State league.

Bellville lost only two games last season, but although prospects are exactly discouraging, Hodge figures the success of the Blue Jays this year depends on the development of the new material.

Hodge appears to have a formidable backfield in the veteran quarter consisting of Hamliton, Sheriff, Balliett and Palm.

Bellville's schedule: Sept. 16, Centerburg, here; Sept. 23, Butler, there; Sept. 30, Fredericktown, here; Oct. 7, Loudonville, here; Oct. 14, Mt. Gilead, there; Oct. 21, Sunbury, here; Oct. 28, Ashley, there; Nov. 4, Danville, there; Nov. 11, Madison, here.

* * *

BURNISON BEMOANS LACK OF RESERVE STRENGTH

GALION—A lack of reserve strength will probably be Galion high school's chief weakness on the gridiron this season. Coach Johnny Burnison, who succeeds Bob Corry as head mentor this year, has lettermen available for every position but one terminal, but the reserve outlook is not encouraging.

Veterans returning are Dick Kump, end; Jim Parrish and Clem Chandler, tackles; Allan Hocker and Merle Kleinknecht, guards; Lawrence Maidens, center; Billy Durtschi, Jim Ernst, Eugene Schreck, George Corrado and Eugene Jack, backs.

Burnison regrets the loss of Bob Schupp, a tackle, through illness. Maidens has lost some practice time due to a recent tonsil operation.

Reserve players who are showing promise in workouts are Bill Grubaugh, Dick Secrest, Eugene Goldsmith, Dale Sanderlin, Paul Maloy, Joe Tuscan, Billy Carmel, Bob Cline and Bernard Mansfield.

Galion's schedule: Sept. 16, Mt. Gilead, here; Sept. 23, Crestline, here; Sept. 30, Ashland, here; Oct. 7, Bucyrus, here; Oct. 14, Norwalk, here; Oct. 21, Mt. Vernon, there; Oct. 28, Toledo Rossford, there; Nov. 4, Marion, there; Nov. 11, Shelby, here.

SIX LETTERMEN REPORT AT BUCYRUS HIGH

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus high school's football prospects will probably not be determined until the Redmen engage Willard here Sept. 16. Only six lettermen are included in the squad of candidates which reported to Coach Armbrust.

Bucyrus' schedule: Sept. 16, Willard, here; Sept. 23, Fostoria, there; Sept. 30, Norwalk, here; Oct. 7, Galion, there; Oct. 14, Shelby, there; Oct. 21, Kenton, here; Oct. 28, Fremont, there; Nov. 4, Mt. Vernon, here; Nov. 11, Ashland, here; Nov. 18, Marion, here.

Cubs Definite Threats to Bucs' Dominance

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Under the impetus of a six game winning streak, the Chicago Cubs today loomed as a definite threat to the dominance of the faltering Pittsburgh Pirates in the hectic National League pennant scramble.

Playing top-rank baseball, the Cubs today open a short series with the third place Cincinnati Reds, and see the possibility of overtaking the Pirates, who lead the Bruins by only three and a half games.

The Cubs, under Manager Gabby Hartnett, are in the midst of a victory string, the first such feat staged by a National League pennant contender in over a month. The Pirates gained their margin—and held it—mainly because the other first division clubs refused to win. But the Cubs now show signs of staging a game stretch duel in the final three weeks of the season.

Following the Cincinnati series the Cubs and Pirates both hit the road and do not meet face-to-face until they tangle in Chicago on Sept. 27.

The Cubs shaved another half game off the idle Pirates' lead as Clay Bryant limited the St. Louis Cardinals to ten scattered hits, Chicago winning 4 to 2.

The New York Giants remained five games back of Pittsburgh, in fourth place, by dropping a 7 to 1 decision to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Freddie Fitzsimmons pitched nine-hit ball and Rookie Oris Hockett pasted out four hits to lead the Brooklyn parade.

The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Boston Bees 4 to 2 as Claude Passeau won his 10th victory on a six-hit feat.

Bump Hadley pitched the New York Yankees to their second straight shutout by trouncing the Washington Senators, 2 to 0. Lou Gehrig played his 2,100th consecutive game and climbed over the .300 mark for the first time this season by getting four hits in four times at bat.

In the only other game played, the Philadelphia Athletics won from the Boston Red Sox on a four run eighth inning rally featured by Billy Werber's home run.

Larry MacPhail Denies Selection of Cochrane

NEW YORK —(INS)— Larry MacPhail, executive vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today denied that he has selected Mickey Cochrane, deposed leader of the Detroit Tigers, as his 1939 manager.

"There is nothing to the report," said MacPhail. "We are not thinking about our 1939 manager, and will not consider 1939 until this season is over."

WELL—AH—UM—KUMF-F— YOU SEE, MY PANSY PATCH—— YOU'RE THINKING OF LARGE QUANTITIES OF CRUDE OIL WHICH IS REFINED INTO GASOLINE AND RAPIDLY CONSUMED!—BUT MY WELL PRODUCES A SMALL AMOUNT OF DROP-OIL,——YOU KNOW.—— THE KIND PUT UP IN LITTLE SQUEEZE CANS FOR SEWING MACHINES!—IT TAKES A YEAR OR MORE TO USE JUST A WEE OUNCE!

British customs officers relieved Tom Mix of his six-shooters when he arrived in England for a visit. We'll probably have to blame that on the disarming British personality.

LATE SUPPORT FAILS TO LIFT FALTERING LIST

Cloudiness Of Foreign Scene Offsets Constructive Home Business Trends.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Traders again used the European war threat as an excuse to sell stocks in today's market and leading issues fell back fractions to around 2 points.

The list loafed in comparatively narrow territory until the start of the final hour when offerings broadened in virtually all departments and quotations hit low marks for the day. A little support was in evidence near the close, but it did no more than stem the downward tide. Transfers approximated 400,000 shares.

Continued cloudiness of the foreign scene tended to offset to a considerable extent constructive business trends at home and most speculative contingents stepped over into neutral territory pending possible hostile outbreaks abroad over the week-end.

While war tension seemed to have lessened a bit during the early market proceedings, as negotiations between the Sudetan Germans and Czechs were to be resumed, sentiment was later chilled when attention was drawn to the sterner attitude of Hitler and reports the Nazi chieftain would demand the annexation of the Sudeten area in Czechoslovakia.

Steel, motor and specialty stocks were in the van of the slide. Utilities and rails generally held declines to fractions.

Conspicuous on the losing side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Union Carbide, Homestake, Dome, Corn Products and Johns-Manville.

A minor cut in list prices of some 1939 model Chrysler Corp. cars was without much stimulating effect for the automobile shares. Other manufacturers were expected to follow suit.

THEATER

"Hit" films, like love, can pack many a headache for the stars of the show. In the popular vehicles, the principals sometimes reach a stride that is hard to maintain in succeeding pictures.

Take, for instance, the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers picture, "Carefree", which steps up the tempo of this team's dancing. Reports from those who have seen the film indicate it will be no mean job to top this performance—and that presents the headache to the stars. In Astaire's case, however, the star is forestalling the headache by cutting his vacation two weeks short to train for his next picture.

* * *

"My Lucky Star."

Dimpled, snub-nosed Sonja Henie is transplanted from snow scenes to an American college compus in her new film, "My Lucky Star", which opens at the Ohio theater with a midnight show tonight. But she keeps her skates, despite the transplanting, to perform in six skating ballets. Richard Greene does the support.

* * *

"Three Loves Has Nancy."

There are three men and a girl in "Three Loves Has Nancy", opening at the Madison tomorrow, and it is easy to understand why Janet Gaynor couldn't make up her mind when it is known that the three men are Robert Montgomery, Franchot Tone and Grady Sutton. It's the story of a small town girl, a city slicker and his friend. Guy Kibbee, Claire Dodd, Reginald Owen, Cora Witherspoon and Emma Dunn are in the supporting cast

* * *

"History Is Made at Night."

This particular "history" gives Charles Boyer a chance to display his suavity in the role of a headwaiter and man-about-town in Paris, and Jean Arthur a chance to parade an extensive wardrobe as a mannequin A murder provides the suspense in the story which comes to the Majestic screen Sunday for two days Co-featured is "The Missing Guest" with Paul Kelly, former player of gangster parts.

* * *

"Love Is a Headache."

Or at least it is to Franchot Tone and the blonde Gladys George in the film by that name, opening Sunday at the Ritz Gary Cooper, perennial idol, and the new sensation, Sigrid Gurie appear in the co-billing, "The Adventures of Marco Polo" which tells the adventures of the "first traveling salesman" of several centuries ago

Movie Contest Fine But Better Pictures Would Help; Vacation-Bound

—By JANE WILLIAMS

WHENEVER you go into a motion picture house in the next few weeks you're going to be confronted with a "trailer" on the screen about a $250,000 contest and a slogan "Motion Pictures Are Your Best Entertainment."

That's a lot of money, and the contest certainly is on the up-and-up and several lucky persons are going to get nice hunks of money out of it—there are two $50,000 prizes among others. And this quarter of a million dollars is the small end of what the industry is spending on its campaign to drive home the fact that "movies are your best entertainment."

Yet one wonders what good it's going to do the industry to spend all that money, and still continue to put out so many pictures that are pure tripe.

* * *

SOMETHING has happened to the movies besides the depression. And whatever it is, it's within the industry itself; the indifference of the public is only a natural reaction to indifferent pictures; and when better pictures are made, there will be no need for million dollar campaigns.

Perhaps a lot of things are wrong with the industry, but in my analysis two loom up darkly. First, in trying to make one movie that will please every nation, conform to every county's censorship laws, the picture is pretty apt to please no one. When the industry comes to realize that the foreign market and the home market have entirely different needs, it will have arrived at one of the basic facts.

* * *

SECOND—and this is my pet peeve—the present system of introducing a whole flock of new faces in every picture, in a mad scramble to find new stars. It seems to me that the movie goers of America have paid out their money to give fifty million embryonic stars and foreign importations their chance, in the last five years.

We're sick of it, darn good and sick; sick of "glamor gals" who have about as much talent and personality as a glass of buttermilk, sick of paying for the producers' experiments. And when, out of thousands of new faces, one star is found, they make him play everything from Little Lord Fauntleroy to Al Capone—as in the case of Tyrone Power.

Whatever is wrong with the movies—and it looks like pernicious anemia—it's going to take something revolutionary in the industry to cure. And in the meantime, movies are still our most popular entertainment — when they are entertaining.

* * *

A KANSAS paragrapher tells of an editor out her way who told a new and very young reporter to write "something about the new filling station opening—and add something to it." The original copy missed the editor's pencil and as the edition came to him fresh off the press he read: "Another new filling station in town—for God's sakes!"

* * *

THERE was an Horatio Alger romance in the life of Patrick Cardinal Hayes, whom all Catholic America mourned this week. Just like the Alger heroes of old, the great man was born in the humblest circumstances in New York's East Side. It was symbolical of his rise to power; he was born at the foot of Manhattan Island and he climbed to the top of it—for he will rest in the magnificent cathedral of St. Patrick's, miles across the city from his birthplace.

He climbed on a most unusual ladder, one little used by men as they climb the heights—it was built, foot by foot and rung by rung, of a staunch love for his fellow man, of charitable and godly acts and a fine humanitarianism that embraced all people.

You can be quite sure that when The Angel reads the list of those who loved their fellowmen, the name of Cardinal Hayes, like that of Abou ben Adhem, will lead the rest.

I SEE By The Papers: A WPA worker in Sycamore, Ill., fell off his shovel and broke his arm. He was leaning his chin on his hands and his hands were leaning on the shovel handle when the insecure implement slipped. What this country needs more than a good five cent cigar, is safer shovels . . .

ON THE LAM: By the time you read this Your Mansfield Correspondent should be well on the way of her vacation, probably stopping at Toronto on the way to Montreal and Quebec. If the 1,000 miles of gravel road around Gaspe peninsula hasn't been washed away in the Quebec floods, we'll jounce out that way. With the Williams' on the trip will be the Harold McKinleys of Cleveland, and of course you remember him as the Off The Record col-yumist of this here now paper. And here's something—"Mac" will be guest conductor in this space next Saturday.

Evidence In Hines Trial Shows Exaggerations In Size of Policy Rackets

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Whatever the outcome of the Jimmy Hines trial, there will be a deflation of the tablecloth estimates of the amount of money involved in the nickel and dime policy racket.

It takes 100 1-cent plays, 20 nickel plays or 10 dime plays to make a dollar's worth of business, and still the turnover in New York City alone was reckoned at $100,000,000 and even as high as $500,000,000 a year.

The testimony, however, has dealt with mere hundreds and thousands, and in the first serious presentation of actual evidence on a mysterious subject there has been no confirmation of the fantastic guesses which in the past were repeated so often that the public weakly half accepted them as truth.

It is well that this glimpse of reality has been afforded, because the people, encouraged by a few careless or gullible writers and politicians, had come to believe that such business, if diverted to a public lottery, would be the answer to the taxpayer's prayer. The late Representative Edward A. Kenney of New Jersey made a political specialty of the advocacy of a federal lottery. He used to estimate that the annual take of sweepstakes, lotteries, pools and policy rackets in this country was from $3,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000. This dream figure was very tempting, but it had no relation to the known facts.

* *

The Irish Hospitals Sweep, the most attractive foreign lottery operating here, sells only $21,000,000 worth of tickets a year in the United States, and the total amount gambled on the grounds at all the horse and dog tracks is only a little more than $250,000,000 a year.

In the Hines trial there is no mention of large amounts. Payments of $500 for political protection have even been mentioned, and the scale of operations was paltry by comparison with all previous thoughts on the subject.

I find among my souvenirs a magazine article in which a writer seriously credits the estimate of Dixie Davis that the policy racket of Dutch Schultz in New York handled $500,000,000 a year. It is true that Davis did toss off this figure, but he has recently admitted that he was just kidding.

* * *

The press and public also permit themselves to be mis-led by reports of seizures of lottery tickets, counterfeit or authentic, of vast face value. If tickets with a face value of $600,000 or $2,000,000 are seized the figure is meaningless. There is no indication that any such amount would have been sold.

The same may be said of a statement by an official of the post-office department that in one two-year period postal agents prevented the sending abroad of $1,000,000,000 for lottery tickets. There is no indication Americans intended to pay that much money for foreign lottery tickets which were trapped in transit.

The policy game is absolutely legal in Great Britain. Like the American policy racket, it is a penny-ante business. With all its freedom the British policy gamble handles much less than the American race tracks. The Glasgow Herald, after a careful inquiry, estimated the total British policy turnover at from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in a season of 36 weeks.

4 Die as Wave Scuttles Boat In Lake Erie

LONE SURVIVOR SWIMS TO SHORE TO SUMMON AID

Bodies Of Victims Washed To Land From Mishap Scene Quarter Of Mile Away.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — Only one man, Roy C. Kuhns, 43, of suburban Lakewood, was alive today of a party of five that put out from Rocky River in a speedboat last night.

Kuhns managed to swim ashore when the speedboat capsized about a quarter of a mile off Avon Lake, west of here. His four companions were drowned, their bodies recovered by Avon Lake deputies, firemen and coast guardsmen from Lorain.

The drowned men were Peter Strachan, 60, of Lakewood, Kuhns father-in-law, Raymond Finley, Lakewood, DeForest Webb, Rocky River, and Hans (Lefty) Barnard, 26, Rocky River.

Lake Becomes Rough.

Kuhns told Avon Marshal W. J. Arnold that the speedboat, piloted by Webb, capsized when it was struck broadside by a large wave. Lake Erie, he said, was not rough when the party headed out, bound for Lorain, but became rough as they traveled west.

Webb was attempting to turn the boat around to head back for Rocky River when it was struck by the wave and capsized, Kuhns said.

Kuhns said he swam to shore with the aid of a kapok life preserver cushion. He told Arnold he turned when he was part way to shore and saw two of his companions struggling in the water. He was too far from them to aid, he said, and he continued to swim to safety, notifying Arnold when he reached a house along the shore.

All the bodies were washed ashore.

A coast guard patrol boat was already on its way to the scene when Kuhns reported to Arnold, as a deputy marshal, H. F. Kotz, had seen a flashlight blink twice in the lake and had called aid.

PLEADS GUILTY

Man Admits Receiving Stolen Property, Fine Suspended.

Pleading guilty in municipal court today to a charge of receiving stolen property, Dine Vangeloff, 68 Harker street, was fined $20 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended the fine and sentence on condition of good behavior.

Vangeloff was arrested yesterday by Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar Krupp who said the man had purchased several gallons of motor oil stolen from a filling station on North Mulberry street last June by four youths who were recently sentenced to the reformatory and Lancaster for breaking open and robbing freight cars.

Vangeloff, through an interpreter told the court that he did not know the merchandise had been stolen.

Up and Down THE STREET

The country roads of northern Richland county were so alluring to members of the Cleveand Cycle club several months ago that the cyclists are coming back Sept. 18 for another trip through the county. Coming to Shelby by train, the Clevelanders will be joined by Shelby bicycle enthusiasts and will pedal to the home of John Swisher in Franklin township for a picnic lunch. Nearly 200 riders are expected to join in the tour.

Whoever said "the unchanging hills" made an overstatement, Mrs. John Watts, Harker street, contends. Mrs. Watts has just had an interesting experience — she visited her childhood home in the mountains of Pennsylvania after an absence of 53 years. Everything was changed, only the walls of the old home remained, only one person identified with her childhood—a cousin—could be found. Even the hills themselves had changed, and a peak known as "Old Baldy" in her childhood was completely overgrown with dense underbrush and trees. One familiar landmark met her eyes—the altar of the little old church at which she was confirmed. Mrs. Watts was accompanied on her trip by her husband and Mr. and Mrs. William Hough of Plymouth.

Antique enthusiasts have been stumped by an old fan powered by a coal oil lamp which was recently obtained by the National Electric company from a Mansfield resident who had no record of its history. It is built on a steel tripod, with a pipe leading from the globe of an ordinary oil lamp to a cylinder in the fan. The fan is operated by the heat of the lamp, but that's about as much as the owners know about it.

GRAND JURORS NAME 147 IN GAMBLING QUIZ

Wilson, 4 High Ups In Police Department, 142 'Small Fry' Facing Charges.

(By International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA — Mayor S. Davis Wilson of the nation's third largest city, today was under $10,000 bail for court as the climax to a sweeping series of indictments returned against him, four high-ranking police officials and 142 'small fry" gamblers.

Wilson, elected mayor in 1935, was named in 21 true bills for alleged misbehavior in office, failure to suppress gambling, unlawfully juggling police and fire personnel and muzzling witnesses for the recent Ruth committees legislative probe of Pennsylvania criminal justice.

The indictments, result of a year-long investigation by a special grand jury of vice and crime in Philadelphia, were returned by the August grand jury. The latter body acted on the recommendatins of the special jurors who have lost the power to indict.

A charge that the indictments were the result of "persecution" promptly was made by Mayor Wilson.

"I have been informed of the indictments brought in by the grand jury. At the proper time I shall at last have my day in court. Then a full revelation will be made of all that is back of this present persecution," the mayor said.

Wilson was permitted to sign his own bail bond and then announced that he would return as usual to his office in city hall today.

Indicted for misbehavior in office and failure to suppress gambling and book-making establishments in their districts, the police officers named were Inspector James E. Clegg, Capt. Robert T. Callahan, jr., Capt. Ernest Holmes and Capt. George Kronbar.
